15 resolutions for a more empowered 2026

As 2026 dawns, the desire to reset and refocus is familiar. We jot down goals: hit the gym, spend smarter, eat greener. But what if this year's resolutions went beyond personal gain? What if they also contributed to collective empowerment? Feminist resolutions are about more than just identity - they're about intention. They're rooted in equality, self-respect... Read more

The women's guide to wellness in 2026

A new year often begins with a mix of feelings: anticipation, hope, maybe even a little pressure. Will I hit my goals? Will I stay consistent? Will this be the year I finally slow down and prioritize what really matters? Instead of defaulting to the "new year, new you" cliché, 2026 invites us to return to ourselves—to what brings us energy, meaning, and peace... Read more

Making money work for you: a practice start for women investors

Financial empowerment does not start with having a lot of money. It begins with taking control of what you have and growing it on your own terms. Yet for many South African women, the world of investing and trading still feels distant, complicated, or even exclusionary. I want to say that markets are not just for a select few. They are for you... Read more

Women and heart health fact sheet

Many people think that cardiovascular disease (CVD) is only a men's health issue, but it's not. CVD is a major cause of death of women in Australia. It's important to know that women often have a different experience of CVD compared to men. Risk factors and symptoms of CVD can be different, and women are also at a disadvantage when it comes to CVD care... Read more

Unseen medical costs are derailing women's wellness goals

Wellness is increasingly a priority for women, including nutrition, fitness, mindfulness, and preventative healthcare. An important part of a holistic wellness strategy, however, is your financial wellbeing, and even the best strategy can be derailed by unexpected healthcare costs, no matter how... Read more

Legal talk: The Retrenchment Process and Your Legal Rights

No one can predict the future – that's a fact. And it's because of this that many aspects of our lives are at the mercy of various factors that are out of our control. Our jobs and, therefore, our livelihoods can also take a significant knock when businesses have to deal with restructuring... Read more
